What is the difference between "stress" and "burnout" and when is it time to seek help?

As the COVID-19 pandemic continues, levels of physician stress and burnout are reaching new highs. Recognizing the signs can help an at-risk physician take the necessary steps toward self-care. Taking decisive action not only benefits the physician but also their patients, colleagues, and loved ones.

Read our new web article "Physician stress and burnout: Finding help during the COVID-19 pandemic" on TMLT's Resource Hub.

While there, explore our dedicated webpage to physician stress and burnout where you will find articles, podcasts, and presentations that offer practical advice. Some popular resources include:
